Private health centre on hold! Now say what we want instead

Congratulations to those who have forced NHS Camden to put on hold plans for a privately run health centre in Hampstead Road in Euston.

The threat of legal action has won the right for local people to be consulted over setting up this clinic which NHS Camden want to hand over to a private company called Care UK.

- Do we want private companies making profits out of our family doctor service?
- Are our local doctors' surgeries threatened?
- Would the £20 million cost be better spent improving the services of existing doctors.

We still have a big battle on our hands to stop more private companies taking over local doctors and to make sure we get the improvements to our NHS that we want.
